Looking Back

As usual 2015 has been an eventful year. Natural calamities like earthquakes in Nepal, terrorist attacks like the one in Paris and downing of the Russian airline have affected many thousands across the globe. Incidents like mass shootings in different parts of the US affected many local communities. Civil war in Syria, the rise of ISIS, the escalating flow of refugees are all creating headaches for the heads of the states and others alike. We have witnessed examples of spiritual and moral decline in this country and elsewhere.

While many events attracted the attention of a vast number of people, many haven't even blinked an eye nor has any powerful leaders of the world have done anything at the persecution and suppression of millions of Christians around the world. Much of the world doesn't even know that thousands of men and women are killed every year – more so this year – just because they are Christians.

The world will be in turmoil, uncertainties and fear will be prevalent and life in the coming years may not be as we used to thus far. In the last day perilous times are supposed to happen. In the midst of all these our God is still in control, He is always faithful and His plans and purposes will not fail; no one can frustrate His plans. Because of Him we have a relatively easy life – in spite of every struggle and pain we go through in our life. Nothing and no one can take away our hope, our promises and His protection.

Most of us tend to make some New Year resolutions. And it is a common thing at the end of the year that we recite our failures. I want to encourage you not to recite all the failures and broken promises. Focus on the good things that you did, any achievement you had even if it was insignificant and anything that helped you grow in spiritual life. If you spent some time for the spread of the Gospel, if you gave a dollar more than you did last year, if you attended a few more meetings – Wednesday, Fridays or Saturdays, they are all great things to remember and praise God for his grace which enabled you to do all those. We are not utter failures that we do not have anything positive to say about our life in the past 12 months.

And as we prepare to welcome a new year let us trust in God's grace, surrender ourselves for His perfect will, be obedient to His commandments and resolve to grow each day a little more into His Son's likeness.

"Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy, To the only wise God our Savior, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen."

"He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. And, behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be."

"Never be afraid to trust an unknown future to a known God."
