Words of Encouragement

“Love conquers all” is a popular saying. Christians, however, know the truth of this saying firsthand. When we are at the mercy of our anger, we are consumed with hatred. But when we have allowed God (who is love) to control our lives, we find that our natural emotions like anger submit to him. We don’t even feel like getting upset over situations that used to enrage us. Love must conquer anything within us that is contrary to the character of Christ. The end result is that we are so consumed with love that even our worst enemy benefits from our transformation. Are experiencing victory over bitterness and vengeance? Ask the God of love to conquer your anger today. (From ‘Extreme Devotion’ a book from the Voice of the Martyrs)

Jesus did not entrust his ministry to independent believers; he established a spiritual family. He used words like ‘brother’ and ‘sister’ to convey that he did not expect his disciples to be in this alone. Paul continued Christ’s mission by instructing new believers to gather together for fellowship and corporate worship. Christians need each other – especially in times of trial. When one believer falters, fellow believers rally in support and encouragement. This is why the New Testament regards living by example as a duty of Christian faith. One person’s example of faith and courage can inspire others to follow suit. Conversely, when one believer cracks under the pressure of persecution, it is easier for others to give in as well. History holds high the camaraderie of Christian community – especially during persecution. (From ‘Extreme Devotion’ a book from the Voice of the Martyrs)

Attending religious services once a week has been shown to add between four and 14 years to life expectancy, according to researchers who study blue zones. (Reason #27 of "50 great ways to live longer"- AARP bulletin).

So let's not give up the weekly meetings - a great medicine for long and happy life. (PAS)
